World Environment Day: Beat Plastic Pollution

World Environment Day, celebrated on June 5th, highlights the importance of environmental conservation. This year's theme, "Beat Plastic Pollution," emphasizes the need to address the growing plastic waste crisis. Plastic pollution harms marine life, contaminates the food chain, and affects human health.

To help mitigate this crisis, individual and collective actions are necessary. Refusing single-use plastics, using reusable bags and water bottles, and recycling can make a significant impact. Governments and businesses must also promote sustainability by implementing policies to reduce plastic use and increasing recycling infrastructure.

Let's work together to beat plastic pollution. By taking small steps, we can create a healthier, more sustainable world for future generations. Collective action is essential to protect the environment and ensure a sustainable future. We can make a difference by reducing plastic use, recycling, and promoting eco-friendly practices. Together, we can achieve a plastic-free world and preserve our planet's beauty.

Summer Fun Has Just Begun!

No more books, no more tests,
Time to sleep and take long rests.
Goodbye school, I'm out the door,
Vacation life - I'm ready for more!

Ice creams melting in my hand,
Sand stuck everywhere, even in my band!
Wearing shorts the whole day long,
Singing silly beach-side songs.

Waking up when I want to,
Brushing teeth? Maybe at two!
TV shows and yummy snacks,
Lazy hours - no looking back!

Mom says, "Go outside and play!"
But it's 40 degrees today!
So I sit under the fan and chill,
Drinking juice until I spill!

Cousins come, and games begin,
We laugh and shout; nobody wins.
Water balloons fly in the air,
Oops! One just hit my sister's hair!

Night time comes, the stars shine bright,
We tell ghost stories full of fright.
Summer fun will never end -
Can I press repeat and start again?

Cherished Summer Vacations.

My favorite memories are of the summer vacations I spent in my hometown. Upon arriving home, my grandparents showered me with love and care, making me feel relaxed and carefree. During these visits, I always felt an urge to explore local attractions like museums and beaches. My brother and I would meticulously plan our itinerary to ensure we visited all the places I wanted to see and had maximum fun.

One of the highlights of my trip was indulging in my grandma's delicious cooking, especially her prawn biryani and ada dosa. Before returning to Bangalore, we would embark on a long trip, visiting relatives and temples. Meeting our relatives was always a cherished experience, as we would reminisce about old times and laugh together, rekindling fond memories.

A particularly memorable part of my visit was when my parents took me to their alma mater. Hearing their childhood stories and my grandparents' anecdotes, which often left us in stitches, was truly entertaining. During long drives or trips, my family and I would share our deepest feelings, from saddest moments to happiest memories, which brought a sense of relaxation and lightness to my heart.

Visiting my hometown also meant spending time with my elder brother, who has been a constant source of motivation and companionship. From a young age, he has been by my side, never leaving me alone in any situation. I feel incredibly fortunate to have such a supportive brother.

In summary, my summer vacations in my hometown have been filled with fantastic memories and experiences that I will always treasure.
