Joy of Learning Beyond Textbooks

K R Jayalakshmi(AHM)

When I entered a classroom 26 years ago, I thought my duty was to prepare lesson plans, complete the portions and guide young minds. However, as the years passed, I discovered a beautiful truth: they were teaching me too.

My school, students and colleagues became my greatest teachers.

Once, in a Grade III class, a child told me, “Ma’am, you die.” I was astonished, and by looking at my expression, he realized the mistake and quickly said, “Ma’am, not that die... you dye your hair.”

One thing I learned from my students is that children pay close attention to our appearance and can quickly spot even the slightest difference.

One of the most heartwarming experiences is meeting our former students. Their affectionate greetings, warm smiles and genuine concern have reminded me that the impact of a teacher extends far beyond the classroom.

Over the years, I have had the privilege of seeing many of our students grow into respected professionals and responsible citizens. Their achievements fill my heart with pride and remind me of the lasting impact of education.

Each child should remember that success is not instantaneous. Dream big and make consistent efforts to attain success

In a similar way, blessings are not something that anyone is capable of receiving instantly. They are earned gradually through our actions over time and through the way we live our lives.

Respecting and supporting your parents is a priceless source of blessings. Their sacrifices are immeasurable and their heartfelt blessings can become a source of strength and guidance throughout life.

My fellow staff members taught me the value of teamwork, cooperation and mutual respect. Through their support and friendship, I learned that a positive school environment is built on trust, understanding, and a shared commitment to the well-being of students.

I was also deeply touched by the school's compassion in extending financial assistance to deserving students. That reminded me of the importance of caring for one another.

For this valuable learning journey, I remain forever grateful to my students, colleagues and the entire school community.

Where Thoughts Find Words

The new academic year brings fresh opportunities to learn, explore and grow. English helps students develop reading, writing, speaking, and communication skills while encouraging creativity and critical thinking.

Students SpotlightBooks of Fiction

Your caress tells about days of green,
Giving the feeling of a turquoise sea,
And dancing past the castle's chandeliers,
You smell like forests and fantasy.
People and hours run in the shadows,
But it's the eyes yearning for ethereal meadows,
Which may perish if not wild,
The dream of a fictional world so mild.
Being an unattainable dream of readers,
It's you, taking me from page to page,
Devouring each phrase with a smirk,
Like a lion gulping its prey in rage.
It's only you, dear book, who can turn Belle
From a girl imbued with fierceness and fury
To a girl stunned with surreal joy
When Beast gifted her an ancient library.
You never stop pulling me to your magical aura,
Whilst my mind waits for dreams and yawns,
And this endless clock ticks till eternity,
Failing to realise it's already dawn.
The power lies within this bundle of pages
To make lilies laugh and the moon blush,
And bewitch candles to talk and canopies to dance,
Leaving readers in a bewildered rush.
It's all amazing in your world, dear books,
That's the reason for readers to escape wretched reality,
By reading stories of people in fantasy and love,
Being ironic to people here who won't feel pity.
